GOT GAY WITH AUTO HORN.
Eagleville Man Tooted and Paid $3 and Costs for Breach of the Peace—Liquor Gets Two Others Penalized.

Monday morning in police court, David Javor of Eagleville pleaded guilty to intoxication and breach of the peace. Javor tooted an automobile horn on Prospect street late Saturday evening to the great annoyance of people residing in that vicinity. Charles H. Baker, who lives at the corner of Prospect and Chestnut streets, testified that between eleven o'clock and midnight Saturday, an automobile stopped on the Prospect street side of his house, and that two of the four occupants of the car left and two remained and that those in the car persisted in tooting the horn, annoying everyone in the neighborhood. He went out and told them to stop, but they continued to toot the horn. He then called the police. The accused said the auto belonged to the boss carter at the Eagleville mill. He was one of a party of four, two of whom had gone down Chestnut street to make a call, and he was tired of waiting for them and had tooted his horn. If Mr. Baker had come out and grabbed him and told him to stop he would probably have done so. He admitted having been drinking. Judge Arnold accepted the plea of guilty and imposed a fine of $3 and costs on the breach of the peace count and suspended judgment on the charge of intoxication.

Andrew Smith, claiming his home as Colchester, was fined $1 and costs for being drunk Saturday afternoon. He had been on Main street, causing some disturbance, and had to be locked up.

John Tryne, who claimed that he was working in Eagleville, was fined $3 and costs for being drunk Saturday evening. He was found about midnight lying on a sidewalk in a helpless condition. This was Tryne's fourth appearance in the local court.

After the cases were disposed of, Judge Arnold held a hearing in chambers, in which five boys were brought before him for fighting.

$1,500 FINALLY APPROPRIATED
After Much Peppery Discussion at Special City Meeting Regarding Extra Sum for Streets—Mayor Blames Automobiles for Road Ruin and Extra Expense.

Mayor Daniel P. Dunn called the special city meeting to order in the town hall at 2:04 o'clock Monday afternoon with about one hundred electors present. City Clerk A. C. Scribner read the warning, which was in substance to see if the city would vote to appropriate a sum of money to keep the streets in reasonably good repair and in a sanitary condition for the remainder of the fiscal year. Corporation Counsel William A. King introduced a resolution that the city of Willimantic appropriate the sum of blank dollars to keep the streets in a reasonably safe condition of repair and sanitary for the balance of the present fiscal year.

M. Eugene Lincoln amended the resolution by appropriating the sum of $800 for the purposes set forth in the resolution. An amendment to the amendment was offered by Isaac Sanderson appropriating the sum of $1,500 for the purpose set forth. Mr. Lincoln then spoke, saying that in view of the fact that he offered a motion at the last city apital meeting relating to the appropriation asked at that time that no action be taken, that he did so more as a protest because the way the street department affairs had been run, and he believed that other electors had done the same thing. He wanted to know where $112 had been spent on Main street the last month, and also wanted to know why the city had spent $35 for the cutting down of a tree that he would be willing to have done for $10 and would not mind the cost. He said the streets at the present time are in worse shape than at any time within his memory.

W. R. Knight wanted to know where the $12,000 appropriation for streets had gone.

Alderman Frank R. Jackson said: "I can't answer that question, although I am a member of the street committee, but I have not been consulted in the matter of expenditures." Charles P. Risadorf wanted to know why the $1,500 was wanted instead of the $800. Mr. Sanderson explained about the removal of a tree at an expense of $35 that was in front of some of his property at High street. He said that both he and the city had tried to have it done for a smaller sum, but were unable to do so and most contractors wanted at least $40 or more, and that in his opinion it could not have been done for less than $35. Mr. Lincoln took issue with him saying that it could have been done for $25 and that he would guarantee it could have been done for that and furnish a bond to that effect. He said "I have a man working for me who is cutting down trees all the time and he could do it for that sum." Ex-Alderman Jay M. Shepard, a former chairman of the street committee, wanted to know about what he termed an extraordinary expenditure on Upper Main street.

Mayor Dunn at this juncture asked "Is Alderman Holbrook in the hall?" being informed that he was, he asked him to come to the chair. Mayor Dunn then took the floor and addressed the meeting. He said: "I would state that your streets are run just as economically at present as they have ever been during the past twenty years. You must remember that your automobiles of today raise havoc with your streets and necessarily entail a much greater expenditure for repairs. Nineteen years ago you had an appropriation of $1300 for streets and again in 1905 you had $1200 for the same department. As to the matter of the present appropriation, it is simply a matter of your street superintendent of streets. He has done as well as any of your superintendents under adverse conditions."

He cited the city of Rockville as an instance where a considerably smaller city appropriates a larger sum for its street department than Willimantic. Ex-Alderman Shepard interrupted with a query relative to the operation of a city's streets and was told that it cost something over $700 to operate the same. The mayor said: "I'll read all the expenditures if you want me to." He continued by saying that the people in the city don't want to see the laboring man get any work; that is the trouble right here. Next year you won't be able to get labor for $1.75 per day, but will have to pay a higher wage."

Ex-Alderman Shepard wanted to know where the city stood financially. Mayor Dunn replied: "It is in debt, just as all other municipalities are." Mr. Shepard wanted to know how many men had been employed. The mayor said at different times from 10 to 19 or 20. The mayor then called attention to the fact that over one and one-quarter miles of new sidewalk had been laid and that the expense of $1650 incident to the laying the gutters, etc., in connection with the same came out of the street appropriation. He said: "You can't work your streets today for the same money you did ten years ago! One automobile does more damage to a street in one week than ten horse-drawn vehicles did in a month ten years ago. That is been my proposition that confronts us and has confronted our state highway commissioner!"

W. B. Knight said: "I have been accused of being a low wage man but I have a high wage man by my employment and I would like to know where I stand! The mills here raise at least half the money in the town and pay as much as I have in my employment." Mayor Dunn said the working man who paid his rent paid his proportion of taxes just as much and more than anyone. He was heartily applauded.

L. Gelinas said too much was being expended for streets and that in his opinion the $800 was sufficient to carry the city through the year. Mr. Knight said: "I kick at carting dirt from town and Main street now get the thread mills." Mayor Dunn wanted to know if there was any dirt nearer. Mr. Knight said he did not know. C. A. Capen said: "I have been attending town and city meetings for the past forty years, and the only criticism that I have to offer on the present administration is that when those in authority realized that the appropriation was going to be inadequate they should have called a halt and notified the voters at least two months ago and provided for the same or curtailed expenses."

Mr. Lincoln then said: "The method of working the street is all wrong. The superintendent of streets should stay with his gang and keep an oversight over the work and not split it up into small gangs of from two to three men and ride about the city watching the small gangs." He said: "Put a gang upon a street and clean it up at once and then go on to other work! The street superintendent is a creation of the mayor, and if he has made a mistake it is up to the mayor, who is accountable, and only to be blamed."

Corporation Counsel King said: "In my opinion the only issue is how much money are we to appropriate for the purposes set forth in the resolution." Mayor Dunn asked Mr. Lincoln how much the leaves and gutters of the city could be cleaned up in good shape for. Mr. Lincoln said with the right method for a sum of from $200 to $300. The question was called for.

The vote on the amendment to the amendment was doubted by the mayor and James Haggerty and C. E. Leonard were appointed tellers. The vote was taken as follows: There were 101 who voted, of whom 54 favored the amendment as amended with 47 voting against. Mr. Lincoln objected to the method of counting the vote, and the objection was sustained by the mayor, who requested that all voting for the amended amendment stand on the right of the hall. Those opposing the same to remain standing where they were. The result of the vote showed that 104 had voted, of whom 53 voted for the amended amendment and 51 against it. The amended amendment was declared carried and then the question as amended was carried, and the $1500 declared appropriated for the purposes of the original resolution.

Adjournment was then taken.

The only thing thus far found missing was $125 taken from a lady's bag in which was a pocketbook with this sum. A box containing valuable papers was broken open. Constable Thomas C. O'Connell was called and investigated and the description of a tramp was given him by Mrs. Fallon. The tramp called early between eight and nine o'clock, asking for food. Word was sent to New London, Mystic and Westerly for the officers to be on the watch for such a fellow. Furniture was set around and sofa pillows upset, and every bed was turned over and every bureau ransacked. Evidently the intruder took his time in leaving.
